

what's the library which is responsible for taking the input in an exact format?

It's pyinputplus it's used if you want to make sure that the user is entering the same type you want like if you want to make him input strings only you can write:

user_input = pyip.inputStr(prompt="Please enter a string: ")

and if you want the input to be only an integer value, change "Str" with "Int."
